INTRODUCTION

First of all, WELCOME to Military Life. You are about to travel on a journey that will change your lifestyle in many ways. The Military Life is different from Civilian Life. Even though there are some similarities, you will find being a Military spouse is one of the hardest jobs in the military. There are times when you will be alone for months to a year, when you will be mother and father to your children, when you will move two times in one year, and when you feel alone and stressed.

Army Community Service (ACS) Relocation Readiness/Outreach Programs have put together a Handbook for the New Military Spouse. This handbook consist of information that is vital to your military experience.

You will find resources to assist with understanding Military Ranks, and Structure, TRICARE, Legal, First Term Checklist, and many more. You will also find articles that will help get you through difficult situations, support group information, and poems written to show appreciation to the hardest position you may hold in this marriage.

ACS Mission Statement:
ACS will assist Commanders in Maintaining Readiness of Individual, Families and Communities with America’s Army by developing, coordinating and delivering service which promotes self reliance, resiliency and stability during War and Peace.
INVITATIONS

There are a variety of invitations to choose from depending on the mood of the party and the hostess – informal notes, boxed invitations or hand made creations. On an invitation use only ONE of the following responses: 1) RSVP 2) Re-grets Only. If using two or more telephone numbers include the corresponding name or names.

THANK YOU

Thank you notes for hospitality and courtesies received are a must and a sigh of gracious manners. If your hostess is a close friend, a phone call is sufficient. A handwritten thank you is appropriate for any occasion whether it be a meal, a gift received or simply a kind deed. When writing a note to a couple, address it to the wife and send it within 5 days.

SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

COURTESY CALLS – This is one of the oldest of Army traditions. A newly arrived officer would make a social call upon his commanding officer. Today it is rarely used in the traditional sense. However, some units still have some form of a courtesy call which enable the commanding officer or senior NCO to personally welcome a new soldier to the unit. In today’s military, the unit’s “Hail and Farewells” serve as the welcome for the new officers and NCOs. Most units encourage their officers and NCOs and their spouses to attend these functions.

COFFEES

Unit coffees are usually held monthly and provide a wonderful opportunity to greet new arrivals, to farewell departees, to get acquainted with the other spouses in the unit, and to find out what’s happening in the unit and one’s support network enjoy.

MILITARY CUSTOMS, TRADITIONS AND PROTOCOL and FLAG ETIQUETTE

Protocol can be a very imposing word to many. In the strict sense it is formal rules of conduct at high level government ceremonies. For us as military wives of the 21st century it can be defined as a combination of etiquette and good manners blended with the rich heritage of traditions and courtesies of military life. It is designed to let us know what to expect in a given situation and can help us feel more comfortable and at ease.

SOCIAL OBLIGATIONS

Military social life is one of the nicest traditions. Friendships and camaraderie grow out of this tradition. It is characterized by the exchange of visits, invitations and other courtesies. The thoughtful and conscientious military couple realizes that when they accept an invitation to a dinner, party or any social function, they have a responsibility to return the hospitality. Remember to be yourself, to do what is comfortable for you and to keep it within your budget.

TO GO OR NOT TO GO?

Frequently you may find a conflict of obligations and interests when it comes to deciding which functions to attend. Of course, your family is your top priority.

Usually your unit Hail and Farewells and the spouses’ coffees take precedence. These social occasions are opportunities to get to know the people with whom your spouse works and to discover new friendships. This will lead to unit “Esprit” which is a very special military tradition. As a part of his/her job as a professional soldier, your spouse must be loyal to their unit and to its commander. Your soldier must pull duty, go to the field and may someday fight a war. He/she has chosen to defend our nation, not an easy task. We use these things not to separate but rather to unite. Our love and support can offer a refuge in a tough job.
TEAS
A tea is held in the afternoon and is the most formal of daytime functions. It is usually given in honor of a person or persons such as a departing or incoming commander’s or senior NCO’s spouse.

PROMOTION PARTY
A time-honored tradition is the promotion party which is given by an officer or NCO or a group of officers or NCOs with similar dates or rank, shortly after being promoted. It does not have to be a fancy affair but provides a chance to invite friends and their spouses to share the good fortune.

UNIT PARTIES
Although the unit is usually the host, unit members and guests share the cost and planning of the party. The most popular unit party is the "Hail and Farewell" which welcomes the incoming members and farewells the departing members. These parties build the unit spirit and camaraderie and are successful only if everyone supports and participates.

DINING IN
The dining in is an old military tradition that has been passed down from the British. As the most formal of events, a dining in allows officers and NCOs of a unit to celebrate its successes and to enjoy its traditions and heritage. It is strictly an Officer/NCO affair, no spouses are invited.

DINING OUT
When spouses are invited to a Dining In, it becomes a Dining Out. This gives the spouses an opportunity to see all the "pomp and circumstance" that goes with the tradition. The spouses will enjoy the opportunity to dress in their dressiest dinner gowns or tuxedos and spend a fun evening with their soldier spouse.

Parades and Reviews
These events are an important part of the military. They can move a spectator to instant patriotism and pride in our country.

Parades can be held for many reasons, but the following are some of the most frequent:

1. Change of Command: The outgoing commander officially passes the unit colors to his/her successor.
2. Presentation of awards and medals: Soldiers are recognized and commended publicly for their achievements or valor in the outstanding performance of duty.

3. Retirement: Every soldier who retires after 20 years or more of service is honored by a parade to give tribute to his/her years of loyal service.

Certain traditions and courtesies should be observed during these ceremonies. Spectators stand for the playing of the National anthem and anthems of other countries represented. As troops pass in review, spectators stand as the national colors approach and pass. Depending on the post's base's policy, spectators may be required to stand for the playing of other songs such as the Army song.

A review is usually smaller than a parade. If the reviewing officer is a General Officer, the spectators will stand at the beginning of the ceremony for the playing of “Ruffles and Flourishes” and/or the sounding of the accompanying gun salute.

OTHER MILITARY FUNCTIONS AND COURTESIES

At all social functions, all invited guests should try to speak to the guest(s) of honor and be sure to bid goodbye to the hostess and/or host.

Always be punctual for social functions, do not come early. You may come early to meetings, however, so that you can socialize before the meeting and the meeting can start on time.

At a ball or dining out, the ladies stand for the posting and retiring of the colors. They also stand and drink for all the toasts except the toast “to the ladies”. If you do not drink alcoholic beverages, you may lift your glass for the toasts as a token. Ladies may stand for a standing ovation for a speaker.

When entering or leaving an installation with a guarded gate at night, dim your headlights 50 feet before the gate so you won’t blind the guard.

Although the military has a defined rank structure, spouses have no rank. It is still proper to address senior officers and their spouses by their last name, until they ask you to do otherwise.

A chaplain may be addressed as chaplain or if catholic by “Father”.

A doctor is addressed by military rank, although in a clinic setting you may find “doctor” more comfortable.

You are welcome to attend a change of command ceremony without a specific invitation. Attendance at the reception following should be by invitation.
CHILDREN

When children are included it will be specified on the invitation. Children are welcomed at parades and reviews as long as they are quiet and well-behaved.

FLAG ETIQUETTE

Every loyal American Citizen, in uniform or not, should have an awareness of the history of our country's flag, what to do when the flag passes in parade or what is expected when you are in the area of the flag at reveille and retreat.

HISTORY IN BRIEF

Prior to 1775 the colonies had their own flags but on 2 December 1775 Continental Congress approved the design of a flag which was first hoisted aboard the Alfred by Lieutenant John Paul Jones. This flag was first called the Continental Flag and later, the Grand Union. The first act of Congress establishing the Stars and Stripes, 14 June 1777, ordained the present arrangement of stripes which stand for the thirteen colonies and had thirteen stars. The thirteen stars were in a circle so that no colony would take precedence. With the addition of a star for each new state it was recognized the flag would soon become too much so during the War of 1812 it was suggested to Congress that the stripes be fixed at thirteen for the original colonies and that a star be added to the blue field for each state.
AT A PARADE

Stand whenever the American Flag goes by.

Stand when ruffles, flourishes and General’s March are heard.

Stand whenever the National Anthem is played.

Stand as a courtesy, when a foreign national anthem is played.

AT RETREAT OR REVEILLE

The flag is raised ceremoniously each morning at reveille and lowered each evening at retreat; the actual time is determined by the post commander. If you can hear the music or see the flag: Stop the car; the driver only gets out and stand facing the flag—military in uniform salute. If you are walking: Stop, face the flag, until the music has stopped. Teach this to your children as they are never too young to learn respect for our country’s flag. Usually a cannon salute precedes the lowering of the flag at retreat. At approximately 5:30 a.m., reveille is preceded by a bugle call, and taps is played about 11:00 p.m.
FOLDING THE FLAG

A distinctive American custom is that of folding the national flag into a triangular shape—stars showing. The shape is supposed to represent the “cocked hat” of the American Revolution.

1-Flag, if visible, is faced and saluted; if not visible face music and salute; if music is recorded face front and salute.

2-Salute is rendered at first note of music and held until last note.

3-When civilian attire: MEN—remove headdress, hold at left shoulder with right hand over heart; without hats, place right hand, palm open, over heart. WOMEN—place right hand, palm open, over heart.

4-When in athletic clothing face flag or music. Remove headdress and stand at attention.

5-Salute is rendered when flag is six paces from viewer and held until it has passed six paces beyond.

SPECIAL NOTES: Photographers and cameramen render the appropriate honors outlined above, except when they are specifically directed to photograph others rendering honors. Flag and national anthems of friendly foreign countries are shown the same marks of respect.

RETREAT

“SOMETHING MORE THAN DUTY”

SOMETHING MORE THAN DUTY
ITS MESSAGE OF RENOWN
AND MEN INSIDE THEIR BUILDINGS WAIT
UNTIL THE FLAG COMES DOWN.
AND OTHERS RUN TO GET TO THEIR CARS
QUIT HARROWED OR DISMANDED
AFRAID THEY WILL NOT REACH THE GATE
BEFORE RETREAT IS PLAYED.
NOT THINKING OF THE FLAG OR MEN
WHO FOUGHT TO KEEP IT FLYING.
HOW MANY WOULD BE GLAD TO STAND
WHOSE BODIES NOW ARE MUTE.
OR HAVE NO HAND THAT THEY MIGHT RAISE.
AND STAND IN PROUD SALUTE?
SO ACCEPT IT NOT AS DUTY
BUT A PRIVILEGE EVEN MORE.
AND RECEIVE IT AS AN HONOR INSTEAD OF JUST A CHORE

ID/DEERS

The Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS) is a military database that lists everyone who is eligible for TRICARE benefits. Make sure your DEERS record is up-to-date. This will help us process your claims quickly and accurately.

DEERS is a computerized database of military sponsors, families and others worldwide who are entitled under the law to TRICARE benefits. DEERS registration is required for TRICARE eligibility.

Registration in DEERS
• Active-duty and retired service members are automatically registered in DEERS, but they must take action to register their family members and ensure they’re correctly entered into the database.
• Once registered in DEERS it is important to keep your DEERS records updated when personal eligibility information changes. This includes changes in military career status; addresses; and family status (marriage, divorce, birth, and adoption) etc. For basic information on eligibility, review our Eligibility Fact Sheet.
• Mistakes in the DEERS database can cause problems with TRICARE claims, so it is critical to maintain your DEERS information.
• Retail network pharmacies check TRICARE eligibility through DEERS. Prescriptions will be filled only for beneficiaries who are listed as eligible in DEERS.
• Each family member’s eligibility record must be updated separately when changes occur.

TRICARE

Eligibility
The TRICARE programs are available to family members of active duty military members and also to military retirees and their dependents. These dependents include:
• Spouses
• Unmarried children under age 21
• Unmarried children under age 23 who are full-time students
• Stepchildren adopted by the sponsor

Those who are eligible must be listed in the Defense Department’s worldwide, database, the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System (DEERS).

Prime Enrollment
The enrollment period for TRICARE Prime is 12 consecutive months. The active enrollment period is the fiscal year (October 1 through September 30). Enrollment of all other beneficiaries begin with the date of enrollment.

Privacy Act
myTRICARE.com by PGBA fully complies with the federal law protecting the medical records of the TRICARE Beneficiaries. According to this law, if you are over age 18, we cannot discuss your medical history with others, including your family, without your permission.

Portability
If you’re enrolled in TRICARE Prime and move from one TRICARE region to another, you can take TRICARE Prime with you. With portability, your enrollment fees and anniversary dates with transfer along with you.
You may transfer enrollment twice during an enrollment year. There is no limit on transfers for active duty families.

Specialty classes are offered when requested. Children are welcome. The center has mailboxes for each registered FRG on Fort Campbell, where Post information is disseminated. The resource library maintains brochures on military life and deployment issues for use at your FRG meetings and unit deployment briefs.

Family Readiness Groups (FRG)
The modern Family Readiness Group (FRG) is part of a tradition of voluntary self-help that goes back to the American Revolution. FRGs are part of a larger system that helps families cope with the rigors of Army life. At a minimum, it is a system for rapidly transmitting information during deployments to those who consider themselves part of the “unit family.” Other services often include a unit newsletter, unit handbook, sponsorship functions, point of contact and phone tree, and various types of meetings and social gatherings. FRGs also find themselves providing social and emotional support (particularly during times of deployments and trauma). Provision of direct, continuing support to individuals (e.g., childcare, transportation, or lending money) does occur but is not recommended because it tends to slow the development of coping skills in individual families and to overburden FRG volunteers.

TIPS FOR THE ARMY FAMILY
1. Define your family expectations in terms that are real for your military life.

Examples that are real:
I want the time we spend together to be quality time. I want us to talk, really talk about how we feel. I will use our hours apart to challenge myself to be real, to be honest with myself about my thoughts and feelings. I will use our time together to focus on the good things we have together, to say what I mean, mean what I say.

Examples that are NOT real:
I want to spend all our time together just like my sister and her husband have. I want to sleep in every morning until 7 am and get up together and have coffee. I want a cooked breakfast every morning. I expect us to be together on important occasions like birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, and the birth of our children.

2. Focus on the positive. Establish the “you gotta believe” principle in your military life.

Examples that are positive:
I know you love me, and that I love you. I believe in us. There are times when you say you'll be home at a certain time, on a certain day, and you don't make it, maybe you don't even call. I know you can't control what happens. I know that. I will choose to believe that's just the way it is. I will not choose to believe you are not standing up for yourself, I will not choose to believe that you could change things if only you would. I will not choose to believe that every thing in your unit is all screwed up and thereby add to your stress, I will not choose to believe there is someone else you are seeing in the way home. I will choose to focus on the positive. I will be happy when you are home safe. That is, after all what I am worried about, that you come home, that you are safe. I know that no news and no calls are OK, that if there were bad things there would be calls. I AM I, YOU ARE OK, WE ARE OK. Who cares that the best meal in the world is now going to be microwave left-overs. We are more important than getting bent about something like that.
Examples that are negative:
So, you really don’t care about how I feel, that I worked all day, came home and fixed your favorite supper, you were late and never even called to tell me. Now I suppose you’ll tell me you have duty on Christmas EVE. Great! We were supposed to go home, you know. That’s the way it should be. Our families are expecting us home for Christmas, you know. It just won’t be Christmas without being home. Maybe I’ll go by myself. That way you can go ahead and see that honey you have on the side. I know that’s it. You Army guys are all the same. You just don’t care. You say you’re in the field, that you have to clean your gear, that there’s an inspection, right? Just how dumb do you think I am? All you want to do is be with your buddies. We are not important anymore. And why didn’t you return my phone call when I called to see when you were coming home? Don’t tell me AGAIN that no one gave you the message. They promised they would.

3. Get with the program. Learn about the mission of your husband’s unit. Understand. That helps everything make sense.

Examples that are positive:
OK, so you’re an Airborne grunt. That means you have to go out in the bushes and woods to practice being a fighting man, to learn about trenches and fighting in urban areas, how to fight alongside tanks, and do air assaults. OK, so that’s why you are tired. The trucks didn’t come to get you because they were late because there was no gas because the soldiers who run the pumps were not there. OK, sounds messed up, but it probably happened. You must have been angry and tired. What’s a typical career like for grunts? Why do the same guys and same units always get deployed? Separations are just part of it all. OK. Not ideal, but OK.

Examples that are negative:
I don’t care what you do as long as the pay comes in on time. I want you here with me when the baby comes, by the way. It’s not fair that you go to Panama and Saudi. Why do you have to go to the field again? Can’t you learn that stuff in class? Why can’t you get it right the first time? No wonder they call you dumb grunts. You can’t be tired if all you did was walk around outside all day. That business about cleaning your gear and cleaning your rifle sounds crazy to me.

4. Count your blessing. We have lots of these in our military lifestyle. Free health care with TRICARE and the Hospital. Be Real. Education benefits. Few companies are offering these nowadays. Security. At least I can reenlist I will know it ahead of time. I can make some plans. A lot of companies are lays off people right now on 2-week notice or less. Pay. My pay can’t be cut, unless I mess up really bad. Can’t say the same for civilian companies. Moves. When I get moved, it is paid for. True, I need to be careful on weight allowances, setting up costs, but at least, the BIG moving bill is paid. What other companies allows employees and family members to move all over the country. The ability to make friends wherever you may go. Advancement. I can get ahead with hard work. The rules are pretty clear. There is a chance to get ahead. It is equal opportunity. Other people make it. So can I. Services. There are a lot of free and discount services and I can use if I want to, like the Commissary and Exchange, and Family Services and The Chaplains. Rehabilitation. If alcohol is a problem I can get top-notch treatment for free. If I go along with the program, my career won’t be effected. That’s a second chance. Allowances. They may not be great, but they are there, they are tax free. They help. Superwomen. We learn when our husbands are gone that we can make it. We can manage the house, the money, the car, the children, a job, friends, family back home. Feels like power. Feels good. We are superwomen. No matter the world throws at us, we can be OK.

5. Have fun. Don’t get so wrapped in making plans that you can’t stop and smell the roses. Let’s go, be silly. Just being together is enough. Enjoy. Chill out. Smile. Laugh. Love is a gift—give it, share it.

DEPLOYMENT INFORMATION

Coping during a deployment

There are several stages of emotion you may go through when your spouse or partner has been deployed. When they first learn about a deployment, many people begin thinking about what it will be like to live without their partner, which may cause feelings of confusion, anger, resentment, or depression.

If you experience any of these emotions, you can
- talk to your spouse about your feelings
- work to create opportunities for lasting memories during the separation
- talk with other people from your military community who are going through the same experience
- involve your entire family in getting ready for the deployment

As the time of departure comes closer, some people may begin to feel detached or withdrawn. Feelings of hopelessness, impatience, and a decrease in emotional or physical closeness are all common reactions to an impending deployment.

When a loved one leaves, family members may go through a difficult adjustment period. On the "up" side, many people feel an increased sense of independence and freedom. The "down" side could include periods of sadness and loneliness.
If you have trouble adjusting to the absence of a spouse or partner, you can

- Try to find things to look forward to. Take a class, volunteer, or start a project you've always wanted to do. Set some personal goals for yourself during the deployment period and be open to new experiences and friendships.

- Reach out to others who are in the same situation. Remember that you are not alone. Plan an event with other families who are coping with a deployment or find a support group through your military community.

- Don't try to hide your feelings. It's normal to feel sad, lonely, or angry when you've been separated from your spouse. You don't have to hide these feelings — that may just make it harder to deal with them. Talk about how you feel with people whom you trust.

- Do something special for yourself and your family. Rent a movie or cook a meal that your spouse wouldn't necessarily enjoy. Plan fun outings with children during free time. Make time to read a book you've been wanting to read or visit with a friend.

- Try to concentrate on the things you can control. It's normal to worry about your spouse's safety during a deployment or about when he or she will come home, but this is something that you can't control. Try to focus on things that you can control, like spending time with family and friends or signing up for a class or volunteer opportunity.

- Ignore rumors. The military may not be able to give detailed information about the whereabouts and activities of specific units during a deployment. Without that kind of information, rumors and gossip can get started. It may be difficult to ignore rumors or gossip, but you'll be much better off if you do. Rely on official sources of information when a family member has been deployed.

- Learn some stress management techniques that work for you. The stress of living without your partner can take a toll on the way you feel and think. Try out some different ways to relieve stress, such as an exercise class, keeping a journal of your thoughts and feelings, or practicing meditation or deep breathing.

- Seek support from your faith community. Many people find comfort and solace from their faith communities during difficult times.

- Take care of yourself. Get enough sleep and exercise and eat healthy meals.
Stress affects almost everyone. Sometimes, it can be a good thing because it can energize us to meet new challenges or changes. But if it's not managed, stress can affect your physical and emotional health, your relationships, and your life. Below you'll find tips for managing stress.

Recognizing the signs of stress
The first step in managing stress is learning how to become aware of it in yourself. Some common physical and emotional symptoms of stress include
- difficulty sleeping
- headaches
- neck or back pain or muscle tension
- stomach pain
- irritability
- anger
- depression
- mood swings

Managing stress
Sometimes, the best way to deal with stress is to confront it at the source. If you're worried about what your boss thinks about your performance, you could ask and find out. If you feel overwhelmed by your to-do list, you could block out some time to tackle it. But not all stresses can be handled so directly. Some sources of stress can't be eliminated, such as a sick older relative or a child who is having difficulty in school. To manage those kinds of stresses, you may need to use other techniques. Here are some suggestions:

- Relaxation techniques are often successful for managing stress. You might try deep breathing, meditation, or just sitting quietly for a few minutes each day to gather your thoughts.

- Taking care of yourself is also an important tool for managing stress. Eating a nutritious diet and getting enough sleep and regular exercise are vital for dealing with stress.

- Research shows that social relationships make you feel better and have a positive effect on your health. Be sure to set aside time for friends and family.

Silent Ranks

I wear no uniforms, no blues or army greens.
But I am in the military in the ranks that are rarely seen.

I have no rank upon my shoulders.
Salutes I do not give,
but the military world is the place where I live.

I am not in the chain of command orders I do not get,
but my husband does this I can no forget.

I am not the one who fires the weapon,
who puts my life on the line,
but my job is just as tough I am the one that is left behind.

My husband is a patriot a brave and pride filled man.
And the call to serve his country not all understands.

Behind the lines I see the things needed to keep this country free.
My husband makes the sacrifice, but so do our kids and me.

I love the man I married. Soldiering is his life, but I stand among the silent ranks known as the military wife.

I Love a Soldier

I love a soldier
With all of my heart.
I see him almost never; We are always apart.
We may not be together, but love does not give in.
To let something like this go would be such a sin.
He is courageous and, He is a man,
Protecting his country as best as he can.
The last time I saw him?
Seven months past.
But I feel his love for me, and know it will last.
Perhaps there will be peace;
Perhaps there will not.
I hold on to hope; It’s all that I’ve got.
My love for him grows. It gets stronger each day.
The distance between us, can’t hold it at bay.
He calls;
I write.
We both hold on with all of our might.
I cry often,
I will not lie.
Sometimes smiling is hard,
But I sure do try.
I love.
I hope.
I dream.
I cope.
His heart is strong; His feelings are true.
He loves me and I love him too.
Yes, I love a soldier, and though we are apart,
We’re always together--
Together at heart.

101st Screaming Eagle Song

Rendezvous With Destiny
We have a rendezvous with destiny.
Our Strength and courage strikes the sparks that will always make man free.
Assault right down through the skies a blue.
Keep your eyes on the job to be done.
We the soldiers of the 101st will fight til the battle won.

U.S. Army Anthem

Intro: March along, sing our song, with the Army of the free
Count the brave, count the true, who have fought to victory
We’re the Army and proudly proclaim

Verse: First to fight for the right,
And to build the Nation’s might,
And The Army Goes Rolling Along
Proud of all we have done,
Fighting till the battle’s won,
And the Army Goes Rolling Along.

Refrain: Then it’s Hi! Hi! Hey!
The Army’s on its way.
Count off the cadence loud and strong (TWO! THREE!)
For where e’er we go,
You will always know
That The Army Goes Rolling Along.
Verse: Valley Forge, Custer’s ranks,
San Juan Hill and Patton’s tanks,
And the Army went rolling along
Minute men, from the start,
Always fighting from the heart,
And the Army keeps rolling along.
(refrain)

Verse: Men in rags, men who froze,
Still that Army met its foes,
And the Army went rolling along.
Faith in God, then we’re right.
And we’ll fight with all our might,
As the Army keeps rolling along.
(refrain)
